

LEARN & CREATE

with Baby Lock

Kiss Your Stash Goodbye Confetti Scarf

Supplies:

- Dissolve-Away Mesh stabilizer (BLS500-20)
- Or Rinse Away Tear-Away stabilizer (BLT110-15)

- A free motion Echo or Glide foot for your machine

- Assorted Fabric Scraps
- Thread
  - The top thread can be any color that works with your fabrics
  - The bobbin thread will not show, so Denise used up all her partially wound bobbins on one of the scarfs
  - So it is up to you whether you wind matching bobbins or not

1. Cut your fabric scraps into small random pieces
  - Denise laid the fabric on the cutting board and then rolled the rotary cutter back and forth to cut the small pieces
2. Cut a length of stabilizer the length desired for your scarf

3. Fold the stabilizer to create a double layer of stabilizer the length of the scarf
4. Place the Echo or Glide foot on the machine
  - This foot is designed to hover above the fabric as you are quilting
  - The bowl shape of the foot prevents it catching under loose edges of the fabric
5. Drop the feed dogs on your machine and select a straight stitch so your machine is ready for free motion sewing if you are using a sewing machine
6. Start at one corner of the folded stabilizer
7. Place a handful of your scraps between the two layers of stabilizer
  - More fabric will be added as you work
8. Stitch free motion through the stabilizer and fabric
9. Go ahead and sew as fast as you can
  - There is no special pattern to be followed
  - The quilting just needs to catch all the fabric scraps
10. If you see a hole that needs a fabric scrap, it is ok to place a piece on top of the stabilizer and sew it down
11. Continue adding fabric and stitching as you work your way down the length of stabilizer

12. Take the scarf to a hot water bath to remove all of the stabilizer
13. Dry it and you are ready to wear it

Happy Quilting,

Denise Applegate-Schober
